

The Conning Tower

The Ballad of the Dripping Man.

I saw a man all dripping wet,
All dripping wet was he.
O sir, quoth I to him I met,
Hast thou been in the sea?

Hast thou been in the ocean, sir?
Hast in a bathtub lain?
Hast thou been ducked in a deep river?
Or stood in the misting rain?

I haena been in the ocean, sir,
Ne in a bathtub lain;
I haena drowned in the deep river,
Ne stood in the misting rain.

I haena fa'n in a lake, nor yet
Yewumme in a saltie sea;
But how that I became so wet
He straightwaies tell to thee:

O lithe and listen, the man did say,
Unto my sad avowal:
I grew so damp attempting to dry
Myself with a paper towel.

Next Saturday the suffrage parade will pass a given point, and we have been asked to be a captain "to keep," the invitation reads, "50 men in line and step." "Here's a chance for you," it continues, "to conduct a real, sure-enough column." Now we can vote, but we can't captain; especially on the day of the Princeton-Dartmouth game.

Besides, there are enough anti-suffs as it is, without our marching.

LOCAL NEWS

Ye Ed. was to Wyncote Pa. yesterday.
Don't forget to vote for woman suffrage Nov. 2.—Adv't.
Rex Beach saw Wed.'s baseball game in Philadelphia.
Rex is looking finely.

Col. Jacob Ruppert treated ye scribe to a bottle of sarsaparilla last Monday eve'g.

Charley Riegelman enjoyed the motor races a week ago yet, ye ed. having given him the tickets.

Mrs. R. T. Lingley of Park Hill is visiting Mrs. A. A. Highlands of Brookline Mass for a few days.

Art Samuels of here and Philada. was to Oyster Bay Thursday to have dinner with Theo. Roosevelt of there.

Stuart Crawford has been appointed sec'y to Corp. Couns. Hardy, and is now on the job.

Sid Mercer of here is growing a moustache again and if it persists we will print his picture again like we did six yrs. ago.

Tom Daly has accepted a position working for Cy Curtis beg' Nov. 1 when he will write a column for the Phila. Eve. Ledger.

Mrs. Julia Ferber of Chgo. arr. Friday, she coming to see the N. Y. premiere of her daughter Edna's play which Ethel Barrymore is playing in.

For the Evening Journal, in refusing to accept any money for advertisements of the war loan because it "disapproves of a loan to prolong the war in Europe," we have the highest respect.

It is a nice point in journalistic ethics, and Mr. Hearst is honorably right. And it is to be regretted that he still approves of Midol, Swamp-Root, Var-ne-sis and A-K Tablets.

"Your athletic young man was talking yesterday," writes Carroll Leja, "and he declared that as to perperadness, he had figured it out mathematically, and the only way to stop the spread of militaryism is to increase the number of aeroplanes, for history ackchelly proved that a nation would deteriorate unless it kept up its armament."

Every time we rearrange our books we cannot help wondering why we never borrow books one half so precious as the stuff we lend.

THE CASE OF MRS. POLLY ANN McMANUS AND STEPHEN ALOYSIUS SPITZ.

Mrs. Polly Ann McManus was a fighting suffragette, who had polished off in order every anti that she'd met; she had travelled round the country making speeches here and there, and the boys would always holler when they'd see her: "She's a bear!"

She had catapalped epithets and scathing adjectives, and she punched the anti arguments as full of holes as sieves. Once a Senator "insulted" her—she crashed him on the dome, and all he had done was tell her: "Woman's place is in the home."

She was simply irresistible—the anti cause seemed lost; Mrs. Polly must be silenced—yes, no matter what the cost. Stephen Aloysius Spitz assumed the herculean toil.

Of enjoining Mrs. Spitz—thus the suffrage cause to foil.

And when Mrs. Polly heard the news, she laughed in scornful glee. "That little shrimp! . . . to muzzle me? Say, tell him this for me: He'd best look out for me because I'll tweak his little nose. The first time that I meet him, and, believe me, dear, that goes!"

The autumn days flew quickly by; election time drew near, and Spitz's great philippics were like thunderbolts to hear; on Mrs. Polly's luckless head his righteous wrath descended, to joint debate at any time a challenge he extended.

Right readily did Polly Ann accept his invitation; the prospect caused her stalwart soul no whit of perturbation. The time had come—the hall was jammed—the buzzing crowd was still.

When Aloysius entered and the air with cheers was filled; He viewed the great throng calmly, with a simple poise and grand He cleared his throat and smoothed his hair, he fixed his necktie and With dignity majestic struck a most impressive pose . . .

"Votes for women!" bellowed Polly, as she tweaked his little nose.

MYRON RAY CLARK.

Razors and Razor Blades Sharpened "for shaving."—Buffalo Courier.

Perhaps the advertiser knows why he used quotes. But why, in the Courier's announcement of John McCormack's concert—Popular Request "Programme"?

Speaking of quotes, the Columbus, O. Conventions and Publicity Association writes as follows: It will take but a moment of your time to make answer to these in "blanks"; and, when this is done, if you will drop card in "Mailing Box," "Uncle Sam," we are sure, can be depended upon to do the rest. Won't you be kind enough to do "your fellow-own" this seemingly small, but yet much-coveted service? Rest assured he will be only too happy to reciprocate your courtesy should it "ever come his way."

How there can be any argument about whom the ball belongs to between the time it leaves the pitcher's hand and the time it strikes the catcher's mitt—or is hit by the batter—we cannot understand. It may baffle the New Jersey Law School, but it has no terrors for us.

The ball belongs to the National Commission.

F. P. A.

MISS INA LELAND WEDS S. A. ORVIS

Autumn Dominates Gowns and Decorations at Ceremony at Saratoga.

MORISON-O'GORMAN ENGAGEMENT OUT

Miss Sophie Brewster, Mayflower Descendant, Bride of Henry Oberly Barker.

Miss Ina Leland, of 51 East Fifty-eighth Street, was married yesterday afternoon in Bethesda Episcopal Church, Saratoga Springs, to Samuel A. Orvis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Orvis, of 58 West Eighty-ninth Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Graham, and a reception followed at the country home of the bride's aunt, Miss Hattie Leland.

The rooms were decorated with autumn leaves, yellow chrysanthemums and American Beauty roses. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Leland H. Leland, was in a gown of white tulle, draped in net and embroidered with seed pearls in lover's knots. Her tulle veil, edged with lace, was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of lilacs, the daisy and white orchids, and wore a diamond pin, the gift of the bridegroom.

Her attendants were Miss Dorothy Morrison, who was maid of honor, and Miss Jeanette Eastman Jackson, of this city, and Miss Margaret Nemes and Miss Margaret Maybee, of Saratoga, who were the bridesmaids. There were two little flower girls, Susan and Mary Ted, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ted.

The bridesmaids were dressed in yellow satin, veiled with brown net, with which they wore yellow satin hats trimmed with brown net. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Thomas W. Orvis was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Ivan Whitelaw, John Caddis, Hamilton Johnston and Joseph de Rivera, who is to be married this afternoon to Miss Margaret Siegfried, of this city.

Mrs. Archibald Sheffield announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Pauline Morison, to William Doane O'Gorman, son of Mr. Robert Emmett Jennings, of Jersey City. Mr. O'Gorman was graduated from Stevens Institute of Technology, class of '11, and the Harvard School of Applied Science. He is a member of Chi Psi Fraternity and the Harvard Club, of this city.

Elizabeth N. J., Oct. 16.—Miss Sophie Cabot Brewster and Henry Oberly Barker, next to be married this afternoon, Christ Church, by the rector, the Rev. Paul Hoffman. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Barker, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss George Schultze, of Paterson, was best man.

The bride is a descendant of Mayflower stock, and she also traces her descent from Sebastian Cabot. The bridegroom's forebears figured prominently in the Revolutionary War.

TUXEDO WEEK END LIVELY

Fine Weather and Social Events Draw Many from City.

(By Telegram to The Tribune.)

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Perfect weather and many social attractions brought a large crowd to Tuxedo today for over Sunday. The first of the mid-autumn series of week-end dances was given at the clubhouse to-night.

Many of those who came out for the socials last night remained over. The dance was preceded by many dinners and house parties.

Among those who gave dinners were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hancy and Mrs. J. Murray Mitchell gave a dinner for Mrs. Lillian Talmage, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Telford had a dinner at their cottage. Mr. and Mrs. David Wagstaff also entertained a large party over Sunday.

Next week a number of social events are scheduled for the week end. Friday there will be a bride's whist tournament, followed on Saturday by the fancy dress dance and concluded on Sunday by a tombstone golf tournament for the Tuxedo Hospital.

The theatrical at the club Friday night was given by the Children's Educational League of New York, under the management of Mrs. Alice Hertz Heinger.

Two one-act plays were given, "The Travelling Man," by Lady Gregory, and "The Vision of the Blind." The committee was Mrs. Charles B. Alexander.

Mrs. Charles Henry Foster, Mr. Harry Deacon, Mrs. Frederick De P. Foster, Mrs. Henry P. Loomis and Mrs. Henry W. Munroe. All the cottagers were present.

Mrs. Charles H. Foster and Miss Maude Foster returned from Newport today, and Miss Lillian Talmage, daughter of Mrs. E. Talmage, is spending several weeks with Mrs. J. Murray Mitchell. Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Russell are stopping at the club. Among the other arrivals to-day were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Derham, Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, and Mrs. H. De Mesa.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Forsyth, Mrs. E. Tiffany Dyer, Park E. Bell, W. Dudley Carleton, Henry C. Weston and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Edwards. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Edwards. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Edwards.

erick Foster entertained the property owners of the Tuxedo colony at dinner at his cottage on Thursday night.

SOCIETY MODELS FOR FETE

Women to Exhibit Gowns in Competition at Stony Wold Fashion Ball.

Auxiliaries Nos. 12 and 17, of Stony Wold Sanatorium will give a fashion fete and ball at the Hotel Biltmore on Wednesday evening, November 10.

Gowns by the leading New York fashion houses will be exhibited by women of society acting as models. Cups will be awarded to the designers of the exhibits voted the most attractive, and the gown will be sold at auction before the ball.

Those in charge of the arrangements are Mrs. J. W. Sidenberg, Mrs. Benjamin Stern, Mrs. Laurent Oppenheim, Mrs. Irwin Untermyer, Mrs. Hiram C. Bloomfield, Mrs. Maurice Strauss, W. A. Walker, J. Salomon, Mrs. Allen Lehman, the Misses Nordlinger and Hochstadter and Simon.

LILY LANGTRY SAILS

St. Paul Leaves Liverpool for New York with 140 Saloon Passengers.

(By Cable to The Tribune.)

London, Oct. 16.—The American Line steamship St. Paul sailed from Liverpool to-day carrying 140 saloon passengers and the steerage packed with denizens of the East Side, who have failed to appreciate the excitement London now offers. These sailing included Lady de Hatzel (Lily Langtry), who is about to begin a theatrical tour in America; F. W. Whittridge, Mrs. Granville Barker, Lionel Atwill, Alfred R. Union, the Hon. P. A. Brand, M. D. M. A. Johnson, Mrs. M. Cadwalader Jones, Sir Charles Ross, Captain J. Morrison and Miss Ross Strunsky.

MISS RUTH SHAW-KENNEDY.

MISS RUTH SHAW-KENNEDY.

Secretary of the Vacation War Relief, who will assist in the bazaar at the Ritz-Carlton, October 28 and 29.

FATHER SULLIVAN BURIED

Police and Clergy, Headed by Cardinal, Pay Honor to Late Chaplain.

Headed by Cardinal Farley, 200 of the Catholic clergy of New York yesterday attended the funeral of the Rev. Father Francis J. Sullivan, late chaplain of the Police Department and rector of the Church of St. Aloysius, Seventh Avenue and 152d Street, where the service was held.

The benediction was spoken by the Right Rev. Bishop Hayes, and Cardinal Farley pronounced absolution, assisted by Monsignor M. J. Lavelle and Joseph P. Mooney. As the coffin was carried from the church 2,000 patrolmen, mounted and on foot, presented batons.

Six members of the Police Honor Legion were pallbearers.

The honorary pallbearers were Police Commissioner Arthur Woods, Park Commissioner Cabot Ward, Dudley Field Malone, Thomas Mulry, Joseph Holwell, Louis De Milhan, John B. Ryan, George Ryan, William P. Larkin, Edward E. Grogan, George Vail, Thomas F. Smith, William McDonough, Frank J. Kelly and William H. McCormack.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

CHICAGO OPERA IN LINE

Farrar New Member of Company—Campanini Here Tomorrow.

Cleofonte Campanini, general director of the Chicago Opera Company, is due to arrive from Italy to-morrow on the steamer Dante Alighieri. He has engaged the following artists: Sopranos—Louise Edvin, Maria Kousnezoff, Nellie Melba, Geraldine Farrar, Emmy Destinn, Maude Fay, Frances Alda, Supercia Conchita, Olive Fremstad, Minnie Jovelli, armen Melis, Frances Reese, Helen Stanley, Elizabeth van Endert, Mariza van Dresser and Marguerite Berca.

Contraltos—Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Julia Claussen, Eleonora de Cisneros, Irene Paviowska and Cyrena Van Gordon.

Tenors—Amedeo Bassi, Hans Behnstein, Francesco Daddi, Charles Dalmore, Octave Dux, Edouard Ferranti, Fontana, George Hamlin, John Maclean, Francis Maclean, Lucien Muratore and Giovanni Zenatello.

Barytones—Wilhelm Beck, Hector Dufrance, Francesco Federici, Marcel Mauguernt, Graham Marr, Titta Russo, Mario Sammarco and Clarence Whitehall.

Basses—Vittorio Arimondi, Carl von Cochems, James Goddard, Gustave Huheraud, Constantin Nicolay, Vittorio Trevisan, Rodolfo Ferrari and Attilio Pargi, and the chief will be at the concert himself. The new stage director for the French works will be Victor Chalmers, of Brussels and Monte Carlo. Napoleone Carotini will have charge of the Italian works and Leonie Taylor will supervise the Wagnerian operas.

The novelties contemplated include "L'Amore Dei Tre Re" and "Dejanira," by Saint-Saens, and Leoncavallo's "Zaza," which will be conducted by the composer himself. The feature of the Chicago season will be the entire Ring Cycle and "Parsifal" in addition to such operas as "Tannhauser," "Tristan" and "Lohengrin." Raoul Gounod's opera, "La Vieille Aigle" will be brought for the first time in America and Massenet's posthumous work, "Cleopatra," will be presented, with Mlle. Kousnezoff in the title role.

BANNARD-MARKLE

(By Telegram to The Tribune.)

Hazleton, Penn., Oct. 16.—William Newall Bannard, a young New York City business man, and Miss Emily Markle, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvan Markle, of Hazleton, were married here yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. William R. Taylor, of Rochester, assisted by the Rev. Robert B. Jack, of Hazleton, in the presence of 500 persons.

The father of the bride is a well known coal operator, banker and street railway president. The bridegroom is a graduate of Yale.

The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Bright, of this city. Miss Lilla Train, of Savannah, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids were Miss Louise Taylor, of Rochester; Miss Ruth Abbott, of Pittsburgh, and Miss Gladys Pardee and Miss Gladys Jones, of Hazleton. Clifford M. Baker, of New York, was best man.

A reception at the Markle residence followed the wedding.

The couple left to-night for Maine to their honeymoon. They will be at home at 114 East Eighty-fourth Street, New York, after December 1.

AN ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced of Miss Josephine Waterbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Waterbury, of Stamford, Conn., to Walter Edward Leaman, son of Mrs. Walter L. Leaman, of 321 West Seventy-fifth Street, this city. No date has been set for the wedding.

LIONEL CARDEN DEAD IN LONDON

Was British Minister to Mexico Until Forced Out by Carranza.

FRICITION WITH U. S. CAUSED TRANSFER

Reported Criticisms of American Policies Made Envoy Unpopular Here.

London, Oct. 16.—Sir Lionel Carden, who was British Minister to Mexico from 1913 until August, 1914, when he was forced to leave Mexico City by General Carranza after the overthrow of President Huerta, died in London to-day, in his sixty-fourth year.

When, in the middle of July, 1913, it was announced that Sir Lionel Carden was to become British Minister to Mexico, those who were "on the inside" scented trouble. The selection was on its face ideal and of precisely the kind that had raised the British foreign service to so marked a degree of efficiency—a kind, unfortunately, not so common in the American service. Sir Lionel was a man of long and varied experience in both consular and diplomatic duties in the northern countries of Latin America. But he was regarded, not without cause, as likely to clash with American policies.

Sir Lionel's attitude for and interest in Mexican affairs were so marked that he remained in that country for several years. He was made consul in the City of Mexico in 1885; from 1885 to 1889 he was British commissioner on the Mexican Mixed Claims Commission, and in 1894 was acting chargé d'affaires at the British Legation. Incidentally he became peculiarly interested in a valuable tract of land on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, in the Oaxaca region, which Lord Cowdray and his associates also afterward acquired extensive holdings.

On the expulsion of the Spanish government from Cuba and the establishment of the American Republics, the British government preparatory to Cuban autonomy, Mr. Carden, because of his familiarity with Cuban affairs, was sent back to Havana in 1898 as Consul General, and four years later was transferred to the diplomatic service and made Minister to Cuba, in which office he remained until 1905. His service in both of those capacities was on the whole efficient, but in some instances he was more energetic than felicitous. He early came into conflict with General Wood, the American military governor, over the immigration laws, insisting that British subjects were to be exempted from some of the provisions thereof, and demanding indemnity for the alleged indignity which one of them had suffered in being compelled to comply with the laws; a demand which, of course, was refused. Again, he sought exemption for a British subject from the quarantine regulations concerning yellow fever.

He may be added that, despite his reputation for anti-Americanism, which was never so greatly deserved as was commonly supposed, he married an American, Miss Anna Eliza Lefferts, daughter of John Lefferts, of Brooklyn, and a member of one of the oldest and most prominent Dutch families of Long Island.

Urged Huerta to Resign.

Such was Sir Lionel's record when, in 1913, amid the stormy days of General Huerta's rule, he was sent back to Mexico as minister, to succeed Francis William Strong. It was assumed that in this country that his appointment would mean British antagonism to the American policy, and this feeling was strengthened by his recognition of General Huerta as provisional President, while the United States government was persisting in its refusal to do so. Nevertheless, he displayed no such antagonism. On the contrary, when John Lind's ill-starred mission had failed to achieve anything, Sir Lionel was the one who, by his convincing speech to the Mexican Congress which was expected to be about to ratify some alleged oil concessions to British capitalists, Sir Lionel led the other foreign representatives into a conference with Huerta and acting as their spokesman, urged him to resign. Huerta's situation, Sir Lionel told him, was hopeless, since the United States was inexorably hostile to him, and Great Britain would support him only when States and give him help. When this appeal to the dictator failed of its purpose, Sir Lionel advised all British subjects to get out of Mexico.

Alleged Criticisms of United States.

That was in the middle of November, 1913. A week later Sir Lionel called for British cruisers to hasten from Barbados to Vera Cruz, and demanded that General Huerta should place special and efficient guards about the Peasants' syndicate's oil fields at Tuxtepec. Before the end of the month he warned all British residents to register themselves at the legation. Amid these strenuous times there appeared in print an alleged interview with him, in which he made some unfavorable comments on American policy in Mexico. The authenticity or the correctness of this was promptly denied by him. In the United States he was not fully accepted at Washington, where the increasing futility of the President's policy was inducing an abnormal sensitiveness to criticism of any kind. The conviction prevailed, or at least was professed, that Sir Lionel was an anti-American intriguer, whose departure from Mexico would be pleasing to the United States, would conduce to friendly relations between this country and Great Britain, and would facilitate American solution of the Mexican problem.

Sir Lionel Called Home.

There was little surprise, therefore, when, early in January, 1914, it was reported that he was to be transferred to Brazil at minister.

At the end of February Sir Lionel left Mexico, and on March 3 he had a long conference with President Wilson at Washington on Mexican affairs, which was, however, unsympathetic and inconclusive.

Soon after his arrival in London it was officially announced that Sir Lionel would be sent back to the legation in Mexico, and on April 8 he left London for that purpose. Just a week later, however, he was gazetted as Minister to Brazil, and it became apparent that he was to go to Mexico merely to serve out the brief remainder of his term.

He went thither and earnestly warned General Huerta against further resistance to the demands of the United States.

Early in March, 1915, a report became current that Sir Lionel would presently be relieved of the Ministry to Brazil and would retire altogether from the diplomatic service.

SEAL Coat, full flare skirt and belt, trimmed with double fur Russian Sable choker collar and two-stripe, deep cuff.

Made also in Baby Lamb, Hudson Seal, Caracul and other Furs, trimmed with various combinations of your own selection.

The heavy demand for Furs in the trimming of Gowns has helped to bring about conditions of extraordinary activity in the Fur Trade.

Early ordering now will insure delivery of your Furs before the extreme cold weather sets in.

A. Jaeckel & Co.
Furriers
384 Fifth Avenue,
Telephone, Greeley—2044 Bet. 85th and 86th Sts.

GENERAL FREEMAN DEAD

Was Brevetted Twice for Gallantry in Civil War.

Douglas, Wyo., Oct. 16.—Brigadier General H. B. Freeman (retired), died here to-day in his seventy-ninth year.

General Freeman served fifty-one years in the United States army, rising from the ranks. He rendered distinguished service during the Civil War and various Indian wars. He was one of a party of Union prisoners that succeeded in escaping from Libby Prison by tunnelling under the walls.

General Freeman received brevet commissions twice in the Civil War. In 1862 he was made a captain for gallant and meritorious service in the battle of Murfreesboro, and in 1862 he was brevetted major for gallantry in the battle of Chickamauga. He received a medal of honor for distinguished services in the battle of Stones River, Tenn., on December 31, 1862.

The funeral will be held in Washington, D. C.

Captain WILLIAM H. REINHART.

Captain William H. Reinhart, for more than forty years a member of the United States Lifesaving Service, and for thirty-six years of that period keeper of the station at Arverne, died yesterday at the age of seventy.

Captain Reinhart retired from the lifesaving service last spring. Shortly before his retirement he was injured while going to the aid of a vessel in distress. He was a native of the Rockaway section and spent his entire life there. He leaves a wife and one son, Postmaster William A. Reinhart, of Inwood.

JAMES GILLEN.

James Gillen, who was the last survivor of the Civil War organization, Quartermasters of the Merrimac, died yesterday in his seventy-fifth year at his home, 171 India Street, Greenvale, N. Y. He was born in Ireland, came to America when a lad. When the war began he enlisted, and for a long time served on the Merrimac. He won special commendation for bravery. After the war he returned to the town of Greenvale. He leaves three sons, Police Captain James Gillen, Joseph and William Gillen.

MISS GRACE NEWTON.

Orange, N. J., Oct. 16.—Dr. Anne B. Newton, of 137 South Orange Avenue, South Orange, has received word from her sister, Miss Grace Newton, fifty-five, a missionary connected with the Presbyterian Board, previous to the Boxer rising she was head of a school for girls at Peking. During the siege of that city in 1900 the school was destroyed, and she returned to this country for two years. A new school was built for her in Pao Ting-fu and she has been stationed there since.

WILLIAM H. ROBINSON.

William H. Robinson, editor of "The Daily Trust Journal," is dead at the home of his sister, Sarah, at Elizabeth Robinson, at Elmhurst. Mr. Robinson was fifty-five years of age, and had been ill from a complication of diseases. He was a brother of the late John T. Robinson, a lawyer and former newspaper writer. He leaves two sons, William H. and George, and a daughter, Elizabeth Mary Robinson.

Mrs. Phipps Buys 89 Acres.

Mrs. Henry Phipps has decided to have a suburban home in the Wheatley Hills section of Long Island. She has bought a tract of eighty-nine acres opposite the Deepdale estate, owned by William K. Vanderbilt. Near by are the estates of Harry Payne Whitney, Joseph W. Grace and other well known persons. The city home of Mrs. Phipps is at the north corner of Eighty-seventh Street and Fifth Avenue.

DIED.

Brodt, R. Augusta. Mills, Charles R. Edgar, Eleanor. Newton, Grace C. Hunter, Thomas. Rodier, L. Joseph. Mann, Henry. Van Dien, Mary C.

BRODT—On Saturday, October 16, at her residence, Dunn Loring, Va., R. Augusta Brodt, widow of the late Charles L. Brodt. Notice of funeral hereafter.

DONOVAN—Eleanor, on Saturday, October 16. Funeral Tuesday at 9:30.

NEWTON—On Tuesday, October 12, at Pao Ting-fu, China, Grace, youngest daughter of the late Frederick W. Newton, of South Orange, N. J.

NEWTON—On Friday, October 15, 1915, in this city, Grace Clarke, wife of Richard Newton, Jr., and daughter of Fanny E. and Thomas B. Clarke. Funeral private.

RODIER—On Friday, October 15, 1915, L. Joseph, beloved husband of Aurelia E. Rodier, in his 55th year. Relatives and friends and members of Fraternity of Elks, No. 17, C. B. L., Monks Council, K. of C., Brooklyn Council, U. C. T., 165, Long Island; Commercial Travellers' Association of America; Travellers' Prot. Association; Brooklyn Council of T. P. A. Post, C. are invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, 108 Moffat st., Brooklyn, on Monday, the 18th, at 8:30 a. m. Thence to Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Aberdeen st. and Broadway, where a solemn requiem mass will be offered. Interment Worcester, Mass.

VAN DIEN—At East Nutley, N. J., on Friday, October 15, 1915, Mary C. Caden, wife of Richard Van Dien. Funeral services on Monday, October 18, at her late home, 83 Centre st., East Nutley, N. J., at 8 o'clock p. m. Interment at convenience of family.